Thornless Blackberry

manifestation..... helps one to awaken dormant talents & one's own ability to channel the miraculous

This plant was planted in my garden about 25 years ago. It grows low to the ground sending out long branches that are almost vine like, smooth shiny and totally thornless. The plant has always been hardy, and it's branches have grown stout over the years. For some reason though, the plant never flowered and never bore fruit. At one point, maybe 15 years ago, we gave up on it and tried to dig it out, only to find that it had roots to China. It came back the next year stronger and hardier than ever, but still fruitless.

The call came clear this morning that we were to make a flower essence, and when I arrived in the appointed area of my garden I closed my eyes and began my prayer.
I felt the presence of a beautiful energy and was told to open my eyes, as the flowers I was seeking were at my feet.

I looked and smiled as I saw countless large pink blossoms covering the ground, growing from a stout vine.

I had never seen these lovely flowers before, and I bent down to examine what to my surprise was my previously barren Blackberry.
This plant continued to blossom for nearly 2 weeks and then produced it's first crop of blackberries which were large, abundant and sweet!

The Thornless Blackberry essence supports the emergence of powerful talents and abilities long dormant,
over-shadowed
or forgotten to our now conscious mind and personality.
It is common during the course of life to meet someone or to be introduced to something new that sparks a passion in us to immerse our self, thus reawakening a knowledge from another life and sending us forth doing something absolutely new or different from “the plan.”
This is really just aligning ourselves with the “original plan,” allowing us to now bear the fruit that we were intended to.
The Thornless Blackberry essence supports this awakening within us and helps us to bring seemingly concealed talents to the surface where they can be expressed in the world to everyone’s benefit.
