

The flowers of Rose Paintbrush are yellow-green tubular projections set in a surround of rose brats. The rose bracts attract butterflies and other pollinators to the sweet nectar awaiting them inside the yellow-green tubular flowers.

Rose Paintbrush

helps activate the strong destiny forces within that can awaken self-motivation to meet the fellow soul-mate travelers who will bless one's journey

We live on a planet of free will, where we can make choices each moment that will affect future events in our destiny..... who we will meet
and what shape our future will take.

We are not always tuned into the messages of our higher self, and many of our life decisions are fear-based and counter-intuitive.

Soul-mates or other members of our Soul Family may have been born far away, necessitating strong Destiny Forces to cause our paths to cross.

Not leaving the job that no longer serves us, not moving to a new destination when we feel the strong unexplainable urge to or not arriving at the intuitive point at the fate-determined time can alter or counter the Destiny that could line us up with the Soul Family members we miss so much in our hearts.

We often do not know or understand the results of our own choices.
It is the loneliness and longing in our hearts for someone not present ~ our Soul-mate, our child unborn ~ that can create a deep and painful heart-wounding as we do not understand why Spirit will not reunite us with our beloveds.

Rose Paintbrush is an essence that can help us to better align our inner longings for reunification with outer actions..... that can help us to find those whom our hearts long for so that we may once again experience the joy of company with those eternal loves.

